This dynamic program presented by Cleveland Clinic will be a unique opportunity to listen to and discuss key issues regarding innovation in contemporary surgical procedures, surgical device and transplant procedures. Outstanding speakers and moderators including recognized leaders in surgery, academic medicine, research, industry, government and bioethics will participate in interactive discussions.

For additional information or to register please visit www.ccfcme.org/SurgeryEthics08

Save the Date
May 8-9, 2008

InterContinental Hotel & Bank of America Conference Center | Cleveland, Ohio
Ethical Challenges in Surgical Innovation

Mark your calendars for May 8-9, 2008. Panel topics will include presentation and discussion regarding ethical challenges in surgical procedures, surgical device innovation and transplant surgery. This meeting will offer CME credits.

Summit Objectives:

1. To educate participants about the moral dilemmas that often arise in the conduct of device development and other surgical innovations.

2. To suggest potential solutions to these challenges, balancing the need for progress and creativity with the imperative of protecting patients from undue risk.

3. To create a forum for exchange of ideas between surgical innovators and bioethicists with expertise in surgical ethics.

Target audience:
Surgeons, Nurses, Bioethicists, Physicians, Students

Faculty to date includes:

- Toby Cosgrove, MD
  Cleveland Clinic

- Pauline Chen, MD

- Ralph Clayman, MD
  University of California, Irvine

- Joel Cooper, MD
  Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania

- Rebecca Dresser
  Washington University Law School

- Joseph Fins, MD, FACP
  Weill Medical College of Cornell University

- Thomas Fogarty, MD
  Stanford University

- James Herndon, MD
  Massachusetts General Hospital

- Thomas Krummel, MD
  Stanford University
  School of Medicine

- Jonathan Moreno, PhD
  University of Pennsylvania

- Tom Murray, PhD
  The Hastings Center

- Mike Mussallem
  Edwards Lifesciences

- Daniel Schultz
  Department of Health and Human Services

- Mark Siegler, MD
  The University of Chicago Medical Center

- Tom Starzl, MD, PhD
  University of Pittsburgh Medical Center

- Chris Thompson, MD, MHES
  Brigham & Women’s Hospital

- Peter Ubel, MD
  University of Michigan

- Chris White
  AdvaMed

For additional information or to register please visit www.ccfcme.org/SurgeryEthics08