Where: The Great Lakes Science Center

Who: High school students participating in The Cleveland Clinic's High School Summer Internship Program

The new summer internship program is providing 45 junior and senior high school students in Greater Cleveland with the opportunity to learn about science firsthand.

This year's summer science program began June 13 and runs through Aug. 12. The nine-week internship is the first program launched by the Clinic's newly created Office of Civic Education and is designed to increase the interest of participating students in science, literacy, and research by augmenting their learning experiences outside of the classroom.

Students in the summer internship program's inaugural class attend 13 Cleveland high schools, in addition to Benedictine High School, Cleveland Heights High School, Early College High School, Fuchs Mizrahi School, Gilmour High School, Hathaway Brown High School, Lakewood High School, Maple Heights High School, Orange High School, Rocky River High School, Shaker Heights High School, Shaw High School, St. Edwards High School, St. Ignatius High School, Trinity High School, and Westlake High School.

The Cleveland Clinic Foundation, located in Cleveland, Ohio, is a not-for-profit multispecialty academic medical center that integrates clinical and hospital care with research and education. The Cleveland Clinic was founded in 1921 by four renowned physicians with a vision of providing outstanding patient care based upon the principles of cooperation, compassion and innovation. U.S. News & World Report consistently names The Cleveland Clinic as one of the nation's best hospitals in its annual "America's Best Hospitals" survey. Approximately 1,500 full-time salaried physicians at The Cleveland Clinic and Cleveland Clinic Florida represent more than 100 medical specialties and subspecialties. In 2004, patients came for treatment from every state and 100 countries. The Cleveland Clinic website address is www.clevelandclinic.org.
